

I wonder if you could help? Jo Hilton Jones has passed on your details.

Saturday 18 November 2017 sees the start of National HIV testing week and the link below takes you to guidance and information to clinicians, general practitioners and other primary care professionals. I wondered if this is something you could share with your networks? There are also further links within this document to free posters and other free resources which could be displayed in GP surgeries?

I have copied in Carole and Bert in this email as Jo suggested this could also be included in the next LMC Newsletter?

Please let me know if this is something you could promote through your networks and let me know if I can do anything to help.

Many thanks
