

An introduction to the BMA

Dear Dr Jenkinson

In these challenging times it's more important than ever to have dependable representation and support. The following guidance will give you an idea how the BMA is set up to help you and promote your career.

What we do for you ...

Contract checking service

Over 11% of contracts checked last year contained deviations from the recommended model. Ensure yours is correct with our free contract checking service.

Employment advice

Get expert advice on issues such as contracts, pay and discrimination. Our advisers cannot help with issues that pre-date membership, so join now to avoid facing difficult situations alone.

Your free copy of The BMJ

Keep up to date with the latest clinical research and thinking plus information on professional development, careers and jobs with your free copy of The BMJ, online and in print.

Regular news

Receive regular updates on the latest news in your area of focus and more general news from the medical profession in the fortnightly BMA newsletter.

Make valuable connections in your area

Working at a local level our regional advisers are perfectly placed to link you to doctors with similar needs and challenges. Events range from clinical lectures to parent and baby coffee mornings.

Learning and development

Enhance your career with our free and discounted non-clinical (CPD approved) webinars, e-learning modules, workshops, one-to-one career coaching, in-house training at your workplace and more.

Whether it's via the website, in our online communities, face-to-face or in an email from your representatives, we will make sure you're kept up-to-date with the latest news and information specific to your professional interests.

Join the BMA - over 170,000 members standing together

In this uncertain and volatile time for doctors unity is more important than ever. We're stronger together.
